Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Hello microsoft,

I think that the Justice dept's handling of the MS case borders on incompetence. To have only prosecuted MS on the Browser issue is overlooking a whole host of other violations that MS has committed over the years. MS's treatment of OEM computer manufacturers by requiring them to buy a copy of Windows for every PC they sold regardless of whether the purchaser wanted it or not is certainly criminal.

I think that the proposed settlement is entirely inadequate and toothless. MS needs to be punished in some meaningful significant way and not let off with a slap on the wrist.
